The makers of Grandpa Soap have a way of advertising that will sooner or later get them into serious trouble with one of our good citizens. They put up small cakes of soap in packages and their dealers furnish the names and these cakes are mailed one to each name. Paul Walker got one chestra on board of these cakes. He imagined that the sender thereof was casting reflections or insinuating that he needed soap and now he is bunting the dealer who sent his name to the makers of Grandpa Soap.

John Ann Clark is one of our good citizens. Atthough somewhat up in years he stands erect as an Indian. He was asked the other day if he was not past fifty years of age. He said, "Yes, I'm past fifty. I am three score and ten years old and today I feel like I was good for another three score and ten.
